Whereas experience has demonstrated that the duce to be collected by the Government, and for which Treasury notes are made re ceivable, are inadequate to absorb a sufficient amount of the notes, to prevent the evils of an excessive paper currency; and it is deemed essential to the interests of the people and of the Government that the right to pay all Government dues in their issues should be waived by the people to a certain extent, and mea-sures be adopted by the Government to re-deem or fund the antire amount of the said issues, or so much as shall reduce the sum of the currency to tiro hundred millions ($200. 000,000) or less. For the accomplishment of this object, the following mean res are recommended to the country and the Government

The "Pashionable Sale of the Season" can e off yesterday at No. " 167" Main street, until lately one of the many attractive gaming establishments of the city. The asle was conducted by Mr. E. S. Pleasants, auctioneer, who speared with a silver hammer, white kids, white weistcoat, black dress coat, barred pants his general make up giving colut to the unusual occasion. The audience of buyers and spectators was large, and composed mostly of that class who are expected to bid ; not gape and look on, and see the " most superb piece of funitare mechanical skill ever put together" go for a song. Among the fe-males we noticed the several proprietresses of as many fashionable brothels, one up and the other down town, and they seemed to be bid-ders in competition for several pieces of fur-niture very desirable in their estimation. As might be expected from the elegant style of articles exposed, the bidding was lively, and prices were obtained that will do no discrediteven to the gatting fraterarty.

An eleganteet of silver-plated ware brought $800, and another, surpassing the first in fin-

A second sideboard was escrificed at $900, and s third, as the elegant auctioneer said, was "actually thrown away" at $640.

The gargeous mirrors in the "House of Lords" and "Commons" reflected $800 apiece under the allver hammer and the more silver tongue of the elegant auctionser, who, as he turned away after the "knock down," said that wasn't more than the value of the naked

A set of Bohemian glassware brought $1,000, and several other sets a proportionate sum. Two elegant, massive, cluster chandeliers were "knocked down"—not literally. but figuratively for $200 for the pair. A hat-rack and two languishing easy chair, sold for $250. The remaining articles sold in proportion, and were not slow in following their aristocratic predecessors in the triding mat ter of price.—Richmond Examiner.

THE BROAD ARROW.-Many have doubtless inquired the significance of " the broad arrows which has been put upon the rebel rams. It indicates possession by Her Majiv. The broad arrow is a troversment mark somewhat in the shape of all arrow head, which is stamped, cur'or otherwise fixed on all solid material used in Her Majesty's ships or dockyards, in order to prevent embezzlement of royal naval stores. The mark was assumed at the time of the Edwards, (when the arrow was considered the most powerful weapon of attack,) as distinguishing the property of the king. To be found in possession his headquarters at Culperper Court Henry, which tof any property thus marked is a criminal of his whole army is known to be south of the Rapfence, punishable with a heavy fine.

Prou the Southern Guardian. The Currency.

int. The public good requires that the redundant entrees should be accounty, and equitably absorbed.

2d. It is manifestly just that those persons who have made mosey since the the begining of the pending war, and especially those who have made it out of the war. should, even to the extent or every dollar of their geits; if to isuch be necessary, maintain the army in the field and the public credit. 3d. That Congress, with the view of absorbing the aurplus currency, out it to pass a law requiring three-fourths of all profit from every source, or if thought necessary, a greater pro-portion, to be vested in four per cent. Confederate bonds.

4th. Test ouch a law is clearly and eminently due to those citizens who have refrained from entering into the general acramble for money; to those unfortunate citizens who have been driven from their homes and who e property has been plundered, and pre eminendy due to the brave men of the army who have fought so well and who have suffered so much 5th. That it is plain that the capital ets of this war have made their fortunes out of the wants of their neighbors and the necessities of their defenders. It is therefore, on their part, illiberal and unpatriotic, if not monstrous, for them now to demand from their victims unusual and extraordinary securities before they can be induced to vest in Confederate bonds their very questionable gains. Con-sequently all schemes having for their object the absorption of the currency by means of bonds, the payment of which is to be guaranteed by specific and extraordinary securicies, are obviously unwise and unjust. Fight on the Rappubaunock.

The Richmond Whig, of the 9th, siys that about 3 or 4 o'clock on Saturday evening, a force of Yankees, a portion of Meade's army, variously estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000. advanced on Hays' Louisians and H.ke's North Carolina brigades, who were picketing on the north side of the Rappahannock, near Kelly's Ford. The enemy being in overwhelming force, the two brigades were cut off and overpowered, and most of them taken prisoners. A small number were killed and wounded. General Hays, we understand, saved some 600 men, waite a small number of the North Carol na brigade escaped. We also lost four pieces of artillery, but saved the horses and equipments.

Our loss in prisoners is estimated by some at 900 or 1,000 and by others at a much larger number. The numerical strength of the two brigades will scarcely exceed 3,000 men. We learn that Gen. Hays himself was captured at one time, but subsequently escaped. Gen. Hoke is on detached duty in North-Carolina, and his brigade was commanded by the Senior Colinel, whose name we have been unable to learn. Although encountering an overwhelming force, our men are represented to have fought most gallantly, and piled the ground with large numbers of killed and wounded Yankees.

The foregoing are substantially the facts as correctly as we could ascertain them from officers and men who left the army yesterday. We may and that no o cial information has get been received that we have learned in relation to the affair, and nothing through the Associated Press. We hope that further intormation will show the affair to be less serious than at present reported.

It is believed that the greater portion of Meade's army has crossed the Rappahannock, and is probably advancing, in which event a general engagement of the two armies may occur at any time som. Of our own movements it may not yet be advisable to speak Suffice it to say, Gen, Lee is as well prepared now for a fight as when he lately chared Meade to Bristow Station, and that he will fight him, if it is necessary to fight, in a posito u of his own choosing. It will be seen from been preparing for an immediate advance.

In speaking of this engagement, the Whig of the 10th informs us that few or no additional particulars have been seceived from the of a large denomination, say $1.000.$5,000 fight on the Rappahannock Saturday. All that we have been able to ascertain is mainly corroborative of the statement in our last i-sue The fight is represented to have been of a most desperate character, and our men did most fearful execution among the Yankees. As we expected the last report, madifies, to some extent, the extent of our loss, and make it considerably less scrious than at first repor-

> A SOUTH CAROLINA NEGRO IN NEW YORK. -A chaplain who, having been left behind with the w unded at Gettysburg, was carried to New York, says that but a few of the negroes captured at Gettysburg took the oath of allegiance to the Yankees. Most of them steadily refused to work or fight for Lincoln. He relates the following conversation between Gen. Morris, U. S. A. and Titus, a negro from South Carolina:

Morris.-Well, Titus, are you willing to enlist and fight for liberty under the Stars and Stripes?

-No, sir; you may shoot me fast, and Titus den I won't light gainst my Government.

Morris-Weil, Titus, they are going to put you all in the army if you go South?

Titus—Dat's jist what I want, sir.

Morris—Don't you want a good suit of c.othes?

Titus-Not from your Government, sir; my Government is able to give me clothes. Morris-Oh, pahaw! your Government's "played out"; your money is worthless.

Titus—Dat's all you know about it; de mo ney's jist as good in the Souf as 'tisin de Norf; for dar eberyting high and money plenty, here eberyting cheap and money skace. Nigga have a dollar in de Souf-where buckra-

The Mobile Advertiser says the average duration of a Yankee General in active service would be an interesting subject of inservice would be an interesting subject of in-quiry. Rosecrans lasted longer than most of them; having succeeded Buell on the 26th of October, 1862, and been Buellized in turn on the 19 h of October, 1863. He was luckier than most other dogs; for while every dog has his day he had three hundred and sixty of them-almost a year.

RESTORING THE UNION. - The brutal Federal soldiery, and their more brutal officers have a great way of "restoring the Union." Here is a sample of their deeds in Mississippi, Western portion of the country through which they retreated they burned all the residences and harns. They also destroyed the little town of Tallalousa, aix miles west of Holly Springs, as they passed through it. On yesterday, from the Cupula of the Court House in Holly Springs, the smoke of as many as fifteen or twenty fires could plainly be seen all along the route of their retreat, and it is believed not a single residence or barn in that part of the country, has escaped them.
